

FIND THE CONSULTANT

You are now browsing the image trying to find a man in a grey suit, right? Stop. It's the guy on the left, wearing the white safety helmet. His name is Richard and he's a Critical Mind. Richard prefers to combine management best practices with knowledge and ingenuity from operations. By using this approach, Richard is able to significantly reduce lead times whilst boosting job satisfaction. Are you looking for someone to fulfil the 'mission impossible' of cutting down your lead times? You now know what to do. Contact us.

Critical Minds are dedicated to reducing the lead times of all your projects and optimising job satisfaction. We are known in the Dutch superyacht industry for matching our clients' innovative power with the latest strategies and ways of working. Not by writing vast reports (nor by wearing a grey suit or using expressions such as 'cracking the whip'), but by thoroughly analysing your planning processes and ensuring a smooth implementation. Critical Minds are full of energy. Sharing knowledge is paramount to us and we value honesty. So, you really should get to know us. Or hire one of us.
